

Prospective Member Application List Status

The following list is all of the current applications for RCWA membership that are on file with RCWA. Applications are processed in the order in which they were received by RCWA except for applications associated with current or past members which get priority. When you mail in a Prospective Member Application form, it is assigned an application control number and logged into a notebook of pending applications in chronological order of receipt. An e-mail response is sent to the applicant acknowledging receipt of the Prospective Member Application AND giving them the application control number assigned to the application.

Note: Applications are deleted from this list once the new member completes the Range Orientation/Safety Class - you will be contacted about attending the class.

You can then use the application control number to access the following list of pending applications to see where you are on the list. The list is in application control number order. Applications are processed in batches of usually 50 to 60. Processing of a batch is generally completed before another batch is started. There is considerable paperwork involved in collecting the information necessary for approving an application so understand it is not a speedy process. Keep in mind that the RCWA operation is primarily an all volunteer organization and new member application processing has to fit in with everything else. The rate at which new applications are processed varies as time permits.

If you do not know your application control number, you can request the number by sending an e-mail to rcwarange@gmail.com with a subject of Missing Application Control Number. Be sure to include your name as listed on the application and the approximate date you sent it in. We will e-mail the number back to you.
